INVITATION

"A HEALTHY PLANET MEANS HEALTH FOR ALL"

Dear ladies and gentlemen,

We would like to invite you to this year's Sustainability Conference Saxony and presentation of the Hans Carl von Carlowitz Sustainability Awards at the Carlowitz Congresscenter in Chemnitz, starting at 5.00 p.m. on Friday, 1 November 2024.

In the long run, life on our planet will only be possible for us, our children and grandchildren if we maintain peace in the world and continue to promote the cause of sustainability. Like Hans Carl von Carlowitz before us, I trust that we as humankind will be able to achieve this purpose. In the sense of Carlowitz this means:

- respecting the natural world
- managing our resources sustainably
- assuming responsibility for future generations
- strengthening communities and working for the common good.

Sustainability is mostly achieved through informed voluntary action.

That is why this year's sustainability conference focuses on growing a responsible relationship with Mother Earth and respecting the boundaries of our planet and its essential parameters.

The recipients of this year's awards are dedicated upholders of these principles. They are proving through their activities that the necessary personal and social potential to achieve them exists in the world. The work of our award winners inspires our actions – in the words of Hans Carl von Carlowitz "before we're up to our necks".

The acceptance speeches of those selected for the awards and the speeches of the high-ranking award presenters will provide a very timely insight into global sustainability structures.

On 23 September 2024 the United Nations adopted a Pact for the Future to underline the commitment to the 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). This Pact also serves as the guiding star for our conference.

Enjoy the conference and Glück auf!

Dr. oec. habil. Dieter Füsslein
Chair of the board of the Sächsische
Hans-Carl-von-Carlowitz-Gesellschaft e. V.

Environment and food activist

Sarah Wiener (Berlin)

Sarah Wiener is a renowned environment and food activist. She is an advocate of sustainable agricultural practices and healthy food and eating habits. In the European Parliament she fought passionately to achieve a reduction in the use of pesticides.

The Sarah Wiener Foundation (Berlin) funds projects which raise awareness of sustainable food production and promote a responsible attitude towards future generations.

AI researcher in the field of sustainability

Professor Tshilidzi Marwala (Tokyo)

The research of Tshilidzi Marwala creates a link between sustainability and artificial intelligence (AI). His groundbreaking findings and achievements inspire research, education and training for the UN 2030 Agenda (Pact for the Future). In his teaching, he is true to his beliefs regarding the inherent value of the natural world and, like Hans Carl von Carlowitz (1645-1714) himself, he is persistent when it comes to the sustainable management of the economy and to forward-looking economic policy. Marwala serves as Rector of the United Nations University and as a pioneer and stimulator for the UN 2030 Agenda. He encourages a sustainability policy that spans the entire globe.

Award presenter:

Prof. (ETHZ) Dr. Gerald H. Haug,
President of the German National Academy of Sciences Leopoldina and Director of the Department of Climate Geochemistry at the Max Planck Institute for Chemistry in Mainz

Advocate for the Rights of Nature

Prof. Teresa Vicente (Madrid)

Prof. Teresa Vicente (University of Murcia, Spain) is a committed promoter of the Rights of Nature and has achieved major progress on a European scale. Her insistence on respect for the Rights of Nature, especially in the case of the Mar Menor lagoon in Spain, has contributed to greater awareness of nature conservation. She carries Carlowitz's sustainability principles forward into present-day environmental policy and inspires many to work for the protection of our environment.
